“ wow, where would i possibly begin, i have thousands of memories with jon. one of many that will always stick out for me happened in marquette where jon and i were roommates. we picked up our good friend mark sleik who was also at nmu at the time and we decided to go for a little ride way back off the beaten path with jons big boat of a car which was rear wheel drive. we ended up in some back woods and we couldnt get up this big hill, the leaves were all wet, no traction from the rear wheel drive and we were a long way away from campus, jon had a great idea that we needed more weight in the back end so , me being the manliest men of us three, which actually means i was the heaviest, i opted to get into the trunk. after only a few tries we actually made it up the hill. now you think we would have stopped and let me out at that point but..... nope, i was so excited that we werent stuck in the middle of nowhere i think i told them to keep going, which jon and mark were very happy to comply. you could hear me flopping around back there like a ping pong ball and i could hear them two laughing like little school girls. now sure how long it was driving on this extremely bouncy trail in the middle of the woods but they eventually stopped and let me out, we were all laughing so hard i couldnt even get out . every bruise and sore spot for the next few days i had was worth every moment because everytime i would show one to jon we would bust out laughing all over again. it didnt matter what i asked of him or what i needed jon was always there for me!

Rip my friend. I have so many memories of the camping and snomobile trips we took. I don't know anyone with a bigger heart or a man that would always be there for his friends and family. Enjoyed our years bud playing and working together. The world will be a lesser place without your huge heart and smile. I can picture you finishing some cement for the Lord himself and a big smile. Gonna miss you brother.
