“ I met Shelly in Olympia when our mutual friend Helen introduced us. Helen and I took care of her through her first bout of oral cancer, including the difficult surgery, radiation and chemotherapy. We sat up at night and watched "Invader Zim" when she was in too much pain to sleep. She had a fierce determination to live that I've rarely seen in anyone.

She came back into my life about two years before she passed. Her uncommon wit, ability to advocate for others and deep passion to understand the world were a joy-as were her karaoke nights at a local bar. My favourite memory is of her falling asleep on the couch in my living room while reading a book, listening to Baby Snooks and watching a documentary.

She lived Tikkun Olam-making the world a better place.

“ Our family would sincerely like to thank all of those who have left truly touching messages on Shelly's memory book. It is helpful to all of us in this difficult time.

As her sister, I have far too many memories to write here -- everything from when we were little girls playing out in the yard to gabbing on the phone about men later in life. And I remember how we each drove the same car as our first car. And that car was Small, and just like a fickle, unreliable Really Old Van that leaves you stranded and does nothing but cause problems for you and your family. So many memories shared by her family and friends.

We are so thankful for each person who has shown kindness to our family during this difficult time.

“ All the memories posted here so far highlight Shelly twenty or thirty years ago. I knew Shelly in the last five years of her life.

She was an inspiration to many of us, and challenged us to "feel the outrage" that our society is so dismissive of the concerns of the least among us. For those who center themselves on the messages of Christ, rest assured that Shelly followed His principles every day, and worked to see those principles realized in our society.

She was so much more than you might remember from her days in high school or college. I am certain her family aches for her loss, but they should be proud of the person who continued to grow after she moved to Florida. Ours is a better state because of her life here.

And blessings to Van, who was at her side through every difficult step of her last journey.

Everyone needs to know that, even in her passing, Shelly asked us to contribute to a cause--the reopening of the MLK Center in the Greenwood section of Clearwater, FL.

“ Dear Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Cori,

Shelly was a kind and considerate person who had the love of many she touched. My thoughts are with you and your family at this sad time. Sending you my deepest condolences and love.

Perhaps they are not the stars, but rather openings in Heaven where the love of our lost ones pours through and shines down upon us to let us know that are happy.

“ Mr and Mrs Johnson and Cori,

Wow, it is hard to even think I am writing you today about Shelly's passing. It's even harder to know that I no longer have my friend in our world. From coming home with her on the bus to work on projects, reports or just to hang out in Middle school to high school all the way to college as we saw each other on campus. I am still in denial, as I am sure you all are, that she's gone. I still remember our Spanish practice sessions on the phone where my mom would get so mad as she never knew what she and I were talking about. (hard to have seen back then that those sessions would make me appreciate what I do now today with my interpretation skills) I can truly say that our world is missing a wonderful and amazing person and my heart aches for you all. I wish I could be there but please know that I am there in spirit with you all.

*Love you,
